Shortly after 4 o'clock in the afternoon the members of the council of adminiscommittee for Room 18, the private office of Attorney General Taylor, where a secret business meeting was held. Nothing of importance to the public was done at this conference, according to Assistant Adjutant General R. M. Smock.

Henry Clay Adams (more easily recognized under the name of "Harry" Adams) dropped into Room 25 during the aftern to look at the registration books, get his badge and have a chat with such of the old comrades as he might chance to know. Mr. Adams caused a shout of incredulity to go up among the assembled G. A. R. men by remarking that he is fifty-six years old. As a matter of fact, with his hat on he doesn't look more than fortyfive. "When I take on my hat, said he, "I'll paralyze you all." Some of Mr. "When I take off my hat," said he, Adams's friends happened to be present to corroberate his statement as to his age. The conversation drifted to Old Whig times in the year 1844, when Mr. Adams said he was born. "I tell you," said Adams, "people were loyal in those days. My name, Henry Clay, shows that. Nearly everybody named one of their children after the great Whig leader. One of my father's neighbors had but one child and that was a girl, so he named her Henri-

After yesterday's experience, the hotel proprietors of Indianapolis believe in the presence of prosperity. More than one of them was surprised to see a veteran who did not bear about with him the earmarks or opulence, walk up to the clerk's desk, and, displaying a roll of bills, order "the best in the house." It was thought that only the leaders of the G. A. R. would take rooms and board at the higher-priced notels, but the event has proven the error of this prophecy. The members of the G. A. R. are representatives of the solid busportions of the communities from

Yesterday afternoon the department of ficials of the Woman's Relief Corps gave a large reception at the Hotel English, entertaining several hundred visitors. The parlors were decorated with the stars and stripes and a large floral design occupied a prominent place, presented to the W. R. C. by the local society of Indianapolis. The guests were welcomed by the president, Mrs. Maria L. Schlater, of Logansport, and the officers of the department-Mrs. Lizzie W. Brown, department secretary; Mrs. Belle Nash, of Logansport, department treasurer; senior vice president, Mrs. Mary McIlvaine, of Terre Haute; junior vice resident, Mrs. Mary Wilson, of Seymour; epartment inspector, Mrs. Etta Houk, of Scottsburg; installing officer, Mrs. Flora Calvert; counselor, Mrs. Belissa Caylor, of Noblesville; chaplain, Mrs. Martha Little of Greencastle, and the executive board: Mrs. Blanche Gould of Crawfordsville, Mrs. Dr. Flora Smith, Mrs. Bella Bell of Kokomo, and Mrs. Minule Buchanan of Logans port. They were assisted by the past department officers of the State. Last night the hotel corridors and parlors of the Denison Hotel were filled with women who came to attend the large reception given by the Indiana Department, Ladies of the G. A. R.. in the parlors on the second floor. Flags of welcome and the stars and stripes figured conspicuously in the decoration of the hotel and a great many of the women wore evening dress, adding greatly to the pretty scene. The president, Mrs. Alice Kramer, of Lafayette. received the guests, assisted by the past department presidents, Mrs. Etta Toby of Longansport, Mrs. C. Graves of Lafayette, Mrs. Olive Allison of Richmond, and the officers-Mrs. Mary E. Hale, secretary, of Lafayette, Mrs. Carrie J. Porter, treasurer, of Rensselaer, and Mrs. O. D. SCHOOL CHILDREN

Will Be Massed About the Monument to Witness the Parade.

A special and very pretty feature of the parade this afternoon will be its review by a large concourse of pupils from the two high schools and from graded schools Nos. 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 8, 9 and 10, who will march in a body to the reviewing stand at the monument. It is believed that something like three thousand children will be on the monument plaza to watch the parade as it

But for the prompt action of School Commissioner George W. Sloan this interesting gathering of school children would not have been possible. Mr. Sloan learned Monday night from a member of the executive committee of the G. A. R. that Superintendent Goss had said that the School Board had taken no action on the proposition to have the children witness the parade to-day. At the meeting of the School Board yesterday morning Mr. Sloan gave his views on the subject in forcible language, with the result that an order was speedily entered directing the adoption of the plan outlined above. The principals of the two high schools and teachers of the graded schools were promptly notified of the board's action in order that they might communicate the same to their pupils The School Board also directed that any pupil failing to be present at the monument this afternoon be counted as absent from school This order is expected to be effective in bringing out a full attendance of children.

Business Sessions, Street Parade and Evening Campfires.

At 9 o'clock this morning, in the big auditorium of Tomlinson Hall, which has been handsomely decorated for the event. the twenty-first annual encampment of the Department of Indiana, G. A. R., will begin its first session. It is likely that the leaders of the G. A. R. will preside over the most magnificent assemblage which they have ever called to order in state encampment. An interesting programme has been prepared for delegates, visitors and friends. The first session will continue until noon, when an adjournment will be taken to allow time in which to secure dinner and prepare for the elaborate street pageant which is to begin formation at 2 o'clock p. m. sharp, at the corner of New York and Meridian streets. No business of any other sort whatsoever will be either transacted or discussed during the passing of the parade, which promises to be both imposing and attractive.

Immediately after the order of "break ranks" has been given, the scene of action will again be Tomlinson Hall, where the second session of the encampment will be at once entered upon. This will probably occupy the greater portion, or all of "A report was received last night that the British had crossed one of the lower drifts. At 6 o'clock this morning the first cannon shot proclaimed the opening of the battle. The British host could be seen advancing in solid masses. Their cavalry hung on our flanks. Their infantry were less easily discernible in the grass. The sky was clouded with smoke from the burning veldt. The fighting began at Philip Botha's position above the railway bridge. A British field battery pushed across the river and bombarded the kopjes Philip Botha was holding so heavily that they appeared to be cloud-capped from the bursting shrapnel. Under cover of this cannonade the British infantry advanced, but they met with so hot a reception that they had to retire. "In the meantime the British cavalry had crossed the river, moving straight north. TRUSTS

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT PRO-POSED BY HOUSE COMMITTEE.

Long Report in Favor of Giving Congress Full Power to Regulate All Corporations.

WASHINGTON, May 15. - The trust question led to a very animated discussion in the House committee on judiciary to-day, a constitutional amendment finally being adopted by a party vote giving Congress power to define, regulate, control, prohibit or dissolve trusts, monopolies or combinations, whether in the form of a corporation or otherwise. This amendment and a bill restricting trusts were framed some time ago by a special subcommittee on trusts. After many delays the work of the subcommittee was brought before the full committee to-day with a view to getting the trust question before the House. After several attempts to amend the resolution, which were defeated on party lines, the committee adopted it, tric light plant for the year ended May 1 also by a party vote, the Democrats voting was $4,504.54, and the expenses were in the negative in the negative.

The constitutional amendment as agreed to and reported to the House proposes the following as Article 16 of the Constitu-

"Section 1. All powers conferred by this article shall extend to the several States, the Territories, the District of Columbia and all the territory under the sovereignty and subject to the jurisdiction of the United States.

"Sec. 2. Congress shall have power to define, regulate, control, prohibit or dissolve trusts, monopolies or combinations, whether existing in the form of a corporation or otherwise. The several States may continue to exercise such power in any manner not in conflict with the laws of the United States.

"Sec. 3. Congress shall have power to enforce the provisions of this article by tutional amendment says in part: "In our judgment it is the plain duty of those intrusted with the lawmaking powers to propose and submit to the people of the States such a remedy as will enable Congress to restrain and, if need be, repress absolutely all illegal and dangerous combinations which restrain trade or destroy competition, or which may unjustly harass or oppress labor. It is to be expected that the broad and comprehensive proposition embodied in this joint resolution will meet strong opposition and be subject to some bitter denunciation. But aggregated capi tal, if honest in its purposes, not only will not oppose, but will approve and sustain a proposition that is designed to restrain only where wrong is being done and that compels submission to the government of just and an intelligent people.

"Labor has its best friend in aggregated capital, corporations and combination when fairly and honestly formed and conducted. It is not the existence, but the abuse of corporate powers and combined capital that merits condemnation and denunciation and demands a remedy. Such abuses exist. Hence the necessity for the existence of a may be given in a given case.

"The power Congress now has is largely one of annoyance. We may strike a light blow here and now there, but cannot repress or prohibit such combinations or nonopolies. A power to harass merely had better not be exercised at all. Congress should have power to maintain an open enterprises throughout the entire Union. When a corporation or business association becomes a monopoly or when any combina-tion or corporation of men associated under any form or name for illegal or improper purposes becomes a menace to the welfare of the people throughout the Union Congress ought to possess the power to control and repress it. This is the purpose and scope of the proposed amendment.
"It is necessary and it is wise. The general welfare demands that this power exist in the general government, and there is no liberty when illegal trusts, combinations, conspiracies and monopolies crush fair competition in industrial enterprises, control production and prices and thereby oppress and to a degree enslave the people. The report is very long It argues in extenso against the proposed remedy of placing trust-made goods on the free list, which remedy, it is asserted, would be worse than the disease in "striking down protection in an experimental effort to destroy a monopoly or repress a combina-

When the session opened Mr. Gillett, of Massachusetts, asked unanimous consent to consider the Senate bill to reincorporate Bailey, of Texas, in unmistakable terms, announced his objection. The Red Cross. he said, was an excellent charitable organization, but the bill violated sound principles of government. He also objected when Mr. Overstreet, of Indiana, tried for of the four survivors of the Lady Frankwith a brigadier generalship, but the other ability. The House then took up the Military Academy bill, but chiefly discussed poli

The Little Soldiers In Your Blood.

The part which the corpuscles of the blood play in making good the loss occasioned to the body by wear and tear, and in carrying off the effete or worn-out material, has been compared to the part played by a soldier. The corpuscles of pure blood are our soldierfriends, who repair the worn-out tissues of the body, and fight against disease-germs. The first condition for good health is pure blood, and that can only be obtained and kept by taking pure food and drink. Adulterated food-stuffs and drinks are the pests of the modern market, and all too often health considerations are sacrificed to apparent cheapness. If you would have a pure drink, take cocoa; but let it be a pure cocoa, such as Van Houten's, which is highly digestible, extremely soluble, and of most delicious taste. It is cheap, too, for it costs less than a cent a cup. It is easily made; it has an attractive aroma; and it contains more nourishment than an equal quantity of the best beef-tea.

BE SURE YOU TRY VAN HOUTEN'S Eating CHOCOLATE.

The American Machinery Building

Opened-Germans Serenaded. PARIS, May 15, 6:30 p. m.-The American machinery building in the Vincennes annex of the exposition was formally opened to the public this afternoon. The United States ambassador, General Horace Porter, Commissioner General Peck, the American commissioners, a few guests and Sousa's Band made the trip in a decorated boat. The ceremony consisted in remarks made by F. E. Drake, the superintendent, Mr. Peck and General Porter. The blowing of whistles announced that the building was opened and immediately all the machinery was started. On returning the boat stopped in front of the German national pavilion, the inauguration of which was proceeding. Sousa's

Band serenaded the Germans, the Americans landed and, in a body, were received by the German officials, who appreciated

the delicate international compliment.

Sousa's Band played selections in front of the German pavilion. Fire in the Chateau D'Eau. PARIS, May 15 .- A fire occurred at the exposition this afternoon. The flames were discovered in the basement of the Chateau d'Eau, which is intended to be one of the leading features of the exhibition. Intense alarm was created by the blaze, as it was feared that the adjoining Salle des Fetes might become involved. The American section of the palace of electricity would, in that case, have been one of the first places to suffer. The efforts of the firemen, however, succeeded in localizing the outburst and after an hour's hard work the fire was extinguished with apparently slight damage to a portion of the woodwork beneath the Chateau d'Eau and a few tapestries. The fire was due to the fusing of the wires, which ignited the scaffolding underneath the chateau. The Salles des Fetes was filled with smoke, but beyond blacken-
